ALLIED IN CAUSE OF WORLD PEACE.

JOINT ANGLO-AMERICAN MANIFESTO.

NEW ANGLES FOR OLD PROBLEMS IN NEW ATMOSPHERE.

AN HISTORIC DOCUMENT.

"On the assumption that war between us has been banished and cannot occur, old historical problems have changed their meaning and character and their solution in ways mutually satisfactory has become possible," says a manifesto jointly issued by President Hoover and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in Washington last night.

The manifesto has created a profound impression, suggesting as it does an unwritten alliance between the United States and Great Britain in the cause of world peace.

Mr. H. L. Stimson says that the conversations have met all American anticipations, and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald says that he has succeeded to a degree which he scarcely dared to hope.

HIGH GRATIFICATION EXPRESSED.

Washington, Oct. 9.

Mr. H. L. Stimson, the Secretary of State, issued a statement this afternoon to the effect that the conversations with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald "have been most successful and have met all our anticipations."

It is learned that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover propose to issue a long communique this evening on the subject of their conversations at Rapidan River and the White House.

Historic Manifest.

Later.

Believed to mark an important stage in the modern history of the world, the promised manifesto was jointly issued by the American President and the British Prime Minister this evening.

The manifesto states at the outset that during informal talks in the last few days, they have been engaged not only in reviewing the conversations which have resulted in a provisional agreement regarding naval disarmament, but have discussed some of the more important means whereby the moral force of the United States and Great Britain may be exerted in the cause of world peace.

Positive Obligation.

Both the British Government and the Government of the United States resolve to accept the Kellogg Peace Pact, not only as a declaration of their good intentions, but as a positive obligation.

They will direct their national policy in accordance with its pledge. "The part of each of our Governments in the promotion of world peace will be different as one will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy and the other is resolved to pursue a policy of active co-operation with its European neighbours, but each of our Governments will direct its thoughts and influence towards securing and maintaining the peace of the world."

War Unthinkable.

The manifesto proceeds to affirm that the two Governments "not only declare that war between them is unthinkable but that the distrusts and suspicions arising from doubts and fears, which may have been justified before the signing of the Peace Pact, must now cease to influence our national policy."

"We can now approach old historical problems from a new angle and in a new atmosphere."

"On the assumption that war between us is banished and cannot occur, these problems have changed their meaning and character."

New Conversations.

"Their solution in ways mutually satisfactory has become possible and the two Governments will begin conversations on these problems following the same

AFGHAN MINISTER SENT AWAY.

TROUBLE IN LONDON COMES TO LIGHT.

NEW REGIME IN KABUL NOW OVERTHROWN.

London, Oct. 9.

Simultaneously with news of important developments in the Afghan civil war, there comes to light today a rather remarkable story of trouble in the Afghan Legation in London a few months ago.

The story is divulged by Mr. Yunus Khan, the Afghan Charge D'Affaires in London, in the course of a statement issued today, in which he discloses that the British Government in July last ordered the Afghan Minister, Mr. Shuja-ud-dowleh to leave London.

Affair Explained.

The Afghan Charge D'Affaires explains the incident in this way. Upon returning from Herat in July last, Mr. Shuja-ud-dowleh planned to dispose of the Afghan Government's property in London, including a house and a number of motor-cars, among other things.

As soon as he realised his superior's intentions, Mr. Yunus Khan, the First Counsellor, communicated with the new Government in Afghanistan, under Habibullah, who replied repudiating Mr. Shuja-ud-dowleh and forbidding the sale of the property.

Afghan Action.

Thereupon, Mr. Yunus Khan took the necessary legal steps and acquainted the British Foreign Office with the facts of the situation.

An injunction was also obtained from the High Court in London to prevent eleven cases of goods at Harwich from being shipped to Germany, to which Mr. Shuja-ud-dowleh had departed.

British Statement.

Later.

It is learned on enquiries at the Foreign Office, that the British Government's action with regard to Mr. Shuja-ud-dowleh was taken purely on personal grounds.

It was emphasised that the British Government had no intention of interference with any party in Afghanistan and that it had no intention of extending any recognition to any particular party.—Reuter.

Kabul Falls!

Moscow, Oct. 9.

With regard to recent developments in Afghanistan, it is reported from Terek that the forces of Nadir Khan captured Kabul at four o'clock yesterday morning.

Habibullah barricaded himself in a house in the centre of the town.

The forces at Gardez and Kirizidervish surrendered to Nadir Khan, who afterwards despatched a strong force towards Jellalabad to meet the Kohistan troops, whom Habibullah hastily summoned.

Habibullah Flees.

News has reached Calcutta that Habibullah (Bacha-i-Sakao) left Kabul by aeroplane. His followers are reported to have fled without offering resistance.

The semi-starved residents of Kabul were found to have taken refuge in the hills. It is believed that that was owing to the cruelty of Habibullah.

It is said that the people are willing to have the ex-King Amanullah back.

It is not certain how far this will meet with the intentions of Nadir Khan, who is said to be a claimant to the Throne himself.—Reuter.

LOCAL CURRENCY PROBLEM.

PROPOSALS FOR RETURN TO SILVER BASIS.

BANKS MAY CONFER.

Arising out of the situation caused by the drop in the exchange value of the Hongkong dollar, we understand that proposals are afoot for the holding of a joint meeting of the Exchange Banks of the Colony, with a view to considering proposals designed to bring about a gradual return to a silver basis.

Several suggestions have been put forward in this connexion. One is that the Exchange Banks agree to accept over their counters Mexican silver dollars and British dollars at par.

Another suggestion is that the Banks continue to accept dollar notes, but that they decline to pay such notes over the counter until such time as the free circulation of silver is re-established.

It is thought in banking circles that an early return to the free circulation of silver will improve trade, check unhealthy speculation, and prove generally beneficial to the Colony.

RUMANIAN REGENT ELECTED.

POPULAR VOTE FOR COURT OFFICIAL.

CAROL A CANDIDATE.

Bucharest, Oct. 9.

M. Saratzanu, of the Court of Cassation, was today elected a member of the Rumanian Regency Council in succession to the late Dr. Duzdugan. The election was conducted by the Chamber of the Senate, sworn as a National Assembly.

There were four candidates submitted for the honour, namely, M. Saratzanu, General Prezan, the former Crown Prince Carol, who renounced his right to the Throne, and the Republic Social-Democrat, M. Flueraş.

Out of a total of 493 votes, M. Saratzanu, who is 57 years of age, received 445, twenty-two votes being cast for General Prezan, nine votes for the ex-Crown Prince Carol, and only one for M. Flueraş.

The latter, previous to the election, read a statement to the Assembly in favour of the establishment of a Republic, to which M. Maniu, the Premier, replied amid the applause of the Assembly: "Live the Rumanian Dynasty and live the Regency!"—Reuter.

The first Chinese wedding to be celebrated at the Chinese Legation in London, took place today, when Miss Chang Chia-lui, the sister of Mr. Chang Kiang-shan, the Governor of the Bank of China, was married to Mr. Chu Wen-hsing, a son of Mr. N. K. Chu, a well-known Shanghai merchant.

General Chang Kiang-shan, the Chinese Minister in Berlin, officiated, and the guests included the Lord Mayor and Lord Mayoress of London.—Reuter.

CHINA NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

THE "DOUBLE TENTH" IN HONGKONG.

OBSERVED ON LARGER SCALE THAN EVER BEFORE.

TO-DAY'S RECEPTIONS.

China's National Day is being observed in the Colony to-day on a much more elaborate scale than at any time since the establishment of the Republic.

For the first time, the day has been declared a General Holiday, with the result that all banks and business houses are closed, whilst schools and other institutions are at home for the occasion. Everywhere in the city to-day the Chinese national flag is being flown alongside the British red ensign, and everywhere a holiday spirit prevails.

Fine weather has favoured the day, and, in the absence of business calls, large numbers of people devoted the day to golf and other forms of sport.

Any number of celebrations are being held during the day and at night. This morning there was a reception by the Compradores' Association in China Building, whilst later in the forenoon the Chinese Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council held an "at home" at the Chinese Merchants' Club. This afternoon, the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce is giving a reception, whilst various scholastic institutions are celebrating the occasion to-night in various ways, amongst these being concerts at St. Paul's College and at the University.

Compradores Foregather.

The reception at the Compradores' Association was largely attended by local business men, the guests being received by Mr. Pam Pak-shui (President), Mr. Lo Kun-mok (Vice-President), Mr. T. Chung (Hon. Secretary) and Messrs. T. P. Tong, Ho Wing, Ho Kwong, Ho Ki, Ho Leung, U Sze Wing and Leung-Fat-tin (members of the Committee).

After the gathering had bowed three times before the flag of the Nationalist Government, Mr. Pam Pak-shui welcomed the guests, speaking first in Chinese and then in English.

Mr. Tam said:—Gentlemen,—On behalf of the Compradores' Association, I wish to say how very glad we all are to see so many friends present with us, in celebrating our National Day, and to extend to them, a right hearty welcome. We hope they will continue to visit us here and, whether for business or pleasure, they will always find us ready to receive them with open arms. This is the first time that our National Day has been observed as a public holiday, and the Chinese community is not insensible to the consideration which the Hongkong Government has shown in this respect. The spirit of nationalism has never been stronger among the Chinese than it is to-day, and the desire for peace has never been greater. Gentlemen, let us drink together to a new era of peace and prosperity for the world, for China and for Hongkong.

The toast was enthusiastically honoured.

Merchants' Reception.

The Chinese members of the Legislative Council, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall C.M.G., LL.D. and the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'ao O.B.E., LL.D., were "at home" at the Chinese Merchants' Club this morning, the reception being attended by a large number of Chinese and members of the foreign community. The Hon. Sir Sheouan Chow, senior member of the Council, was not present owing to his absence from the Colony, but he sent a cable to the Hon. Dr. Kotewall expressing his congratulations and good wishes to his compatriots.

All sections of the Chinese community were represented at the reception, including trade guilds,

FORGED HONGKONG BANKNOTES.

HOW WOMAN WAS VICTIMISED IN CANTON.

PAID IN LOCALLY.

Reports of a number of arrests having been effected in what was suggested to be an important banknote forgery case were to-day discredited when the facts were disclosed at Police Headquarters.

What actually happened was that the police were called yesterday to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank where they were shown certain notes, amounting to a face value of about $1,000, which were obviously forgeries. At the same time it was ascertained that the forged notes were paid in by a customer in the usual course of the operation of a private account.

The next stage of the investigation, of course, turned on the identity and bona fides of the customer, who was shown to be a married Chinese woman whose integrity remains above suspicion. She was able to satisfy the police officers and officials of the Bank that while on a recent visit to Canton, she had unwittingly accepted the spurious bills from another person in settlement of a debt.

The woman was not even detained. She placed all information she could give regarding the notes at the disposal of the police officers at a voluntary visit to Police Headquarters and came away after completely establishing her bona fides.

DRASTIC PRUSSIAN ORDER.

"STEEL HELMETS" DECLARED ILLEGAL.

Berlin, Oct. 9.

The Prussian Minister of the Interior, the Socialist, Herr Grzesinski, has declared illegal and dissolved throughout the Rhine Province and Westphalia the powerful Nationalist organisation known as the "Steel Helmets."

President Hindenburg is the Honorary President of this organisation.

The drastic action by the Minister of the Interior has been taken on the ground that the members of the organisation have undoubtedly been trained to become a fighting military force.—Reuter.

Toasts Honoured.

H. E. the Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., attended at noon and proposed the toast of the Republic of China. "The King" was proposed by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall.

The premises of the Club were gaily decorated with flags and flowers for the occasion, decorative characters meaning "rejoicing on National Day" being worked in silk above the crossed flags of Great Britain and Nationalist China.

The reception was attended by many members of the Government and the Consular Body. Among the first arrivals were the Hon. Dr. A. R. Wallington, Mr. W. J. Carlie, Major C. Willson, Mr. E. W. Hamilton, Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, Mr. J. Fraser, Mr. R. H. B. Hancock, Capt. P. Perfect, Mr. F. M. Key, Mr. R. Baker, Mr. M. J. Quist, Mr. F. Austin, Mr. A. Morris and Dr. J. C. MacGown. Later, a large number of other residents including prominent business men attended the reception at which musical selections were rendered by an orchestra and refreshments were served.

KWANGSI REBELS' SURRENDER?

IRONSIDES TOO LATE TO GAIN SUPPORT.

CHUANCHOW ENTERED

Wuchow, Oct. 8.

Following the reported entry into Kwellin, the former capital of Kwangsi, of the vanguard of the "Ironsides," a Chinese report says that the "Ironsides" have also entered Chuanchow on the Kwangsi side of the frontier.

The force which has occupied Chuanchow consists of two regiments.

A large number of troops are now proceeding up the West River and the Fu River, a tributary.

General Yu Tso-paik, the ex-Governor, is reported to have fled. It is also reported that General Li Ming-shu has declared his allegiance to the Central Government, in which case the resistance of the Kwangsi forces will be negligible.—Naval Wireless.

Canton Conference.

Canton, Oct. 9.

Resolutions were passed at a conference in Canton this morning between the two Northern Divisional Commanders, General Miao Bing-min and General Chu Shao-liang and the Canton Governor, General Chan Ming-shu and other Canton military commanders, that the troops under the Chan Chai-tong will undertake the task of suppressing the radical troops in Kwangsi, while the three divisions of Northern troops will be used to check the advance of the "Ironsides" into Northern Kwangtung and Kwangsi.

Generals Chu and Miao command a total force of over 20,000.

Chan Chai-tong Forces.

As Commander-in-chief, in Southern Kwangsi, General Chan Chai-tong has under him three Divisions, under the commands of Generals Heung Hon-ping, Yu Hom-mow and Li Yeung-king, the latter being his Chief-of-staff.

The Division under Heung Hon-ping, forming the vanguard of the Cantonese troops, has occupied Wuchow and Yung Hui and is preparing to launch attacks on Nanning and Sunchow. The Division under Yu Hom-mow is distributed and stationed between Samshui, Shuihing, Takling and Fung Tsun on the West River, while the Division under Li Yeung-king is in Canton.

The Conference this morning decided that the Division under Li Yeung-king will leave Canton on the Double Tenth, the Chinese National Day for the West River to join the Heung Hon-ping Division.

"Ironsides" Bombed.

The Canton Government has received a brief telegram from Shanghai saying that two bombing aeroplanes of the National Government sent recently from Changsha to pursue the "Ironsides" report that they arrived at Shenchow on the 8th instant and sighted a body of "Ironsides" on the march.

The planes bombed the troops from the air and succeeded in breaking the morale of one regiment.

Hunanese troops under Liu Kinsui are reported to have occupied Yung Chow, which was evacuated by the "Ironsides" only one or two days previously.

The Hunan troops are expected to reach Yung Ning shortly continuing with the pursuit of the "Ironsides."

In the company of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's personal envoy, (Liu Wan-tao) General Ho Chien, the Hunan Governor, will leave Changsha on the 11th instant for Peking "to direct the expedition" against the Ironsides.

Peking, Oct. 9.

It is reported from foreign sources that that of all the "Ironsides" revolted, then on October 1, fifteen hundred of three thousand troops sent from Hankow to occupy Ichang, after the departure of the "Ironsides," revolted and looted the city, and

THE PROPOSED NAVAL CONFERENCE.TROUBLE FORESEEN REGARD-ING SUBMARINES.

Washington, Oct. 9.
Literally thousands of letters and hundreds of telegrams have been brought to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter personal greetings, from people of the United States.

The Prime Minister's secretary is keeping three stenographers busy all day long replying to them.—Reuter's American Service.

French Arguments.

Paris, Oct. 9.
That trouble is ahead for the London naval conference is indicated by the tone of press comments on Mr. Henderson's invitation.

The papers emphasize that the submarine is indispensable to French security. M. Saint Brice, writing in Le Journal, declares that France does not admit the principle of parity with any other power, and indicates that France relies on Japan's support.—Reuter.

Japanese Opinion.

Tokyo, Oct. 9.
While the Asahi is the only paper that has thus far commented editorially on the British invitation to the Arms Conference, its views appear to reflect general opinion on the subject.

Welcoming the invitation Asahi urges Japan to reply accepting the invitation at the earliest possible moment and expresses the hope that France and Italy will likewise accept.

As it will reduce expenditure the paper approves of the suggestion to postpone the replacement of capital ships, but takes occasion to express dissatisfaction at the large cruiser tonnage tentatively agreed to between Britain and America. It reiterates the demand that Japan shall strive for an actual reduction and not be content with mere limitation.—Reuter.

The Official Attitude.

Tokyo, Oct. 9.
Indications are that Mr. Shidehara will draft a reply to the invitation to the Arms Conference and will present it to the Cabinet for approval on the 10th inst., though before despatching it, it may be necessary to ask Mr. Matsudaira the interpretation of the word "text" in the final paragraph of the invitation, as the exact meaning is not clear.

While it is unlikely that the reply will contain any drastic reservations, it is possible that it may contain minor reservations, as it is known that certain officials consider that Japan should make clear that she will not be satisfied with the agreement for limitation if it involves the expansion of armaments.

The question of Japan's chief delegate is still undecided, but it seems likely that Mr. Reijiro Wakatsuki will be selected.—Reuter.

Japan Fears Failure.

Tokyo, Oct. 9.
The advisability of endeavouring to effect a preliminary understanding on the knottiest problems, among all the Powers concerned, prior to convening the arms conference, is stressed in both official and unofficial circles.

In this connexion, it is pointed out that, whereas formal invitations to a conference were issued only after Britain and America had found common ground for agreement on the question of parity, no such precaution has so

IN MANCHURIA.

"REDS" SLAUGHTER THE
"WHITE" COSSACKS.

Mukden, Oct. 9.
Refugees from the region known as the Three Rivers, north of Hailar, have arrived at Harbin, and recount the terrible cruelties committed against the "White" Russian population there.

A "Red" band commanded by a Magyar known as the Red Devil, on September 20, crossed the frontier and raided two villages inhabited by Cossacks, and killed nearly the whole male population. The "Red" soldiers refused to kill the women, which their commander had ordered. Altogether, eighty-four Cossacks were killed. The "Red" band penetrated to Sinkirbovsk on the Chinese Eastern Railway.—Reuter.

Chinese in Russia.

Canton, Oct. 9.
At the meeting of the State Council on October 8, Dr. C. T. Wang stated that at the rupture of Sino-Russian relations there were many Chinese residing in Russia, and that according to the reports of the Chinese Minister at Berlin, the Chinese have been very harshly treated by the Russian authorities and their property confiscated. Owing to the approach of cold weather, the Chinese residents, who are in a terrible plight, have asked the Government to remit 50,000 gold roubles for transportation back to China.

The State Council passed a resolution granting the remittance, and an order was issued to the Ministry of Finance to deliver this sum to the Foreign Office for remittance to the Chinese Minister in Germany.—Canton News Agency.

CENTRAL BANK NOTES.

STEADY INCREASE IN VALUE
BEING SHOWN.

Although a redemption was suspended, the value of Central Bank notes has been going up for the last few days according to the reports of the money exchange community. This is probably due to the recent laudable feat of the Cantonese armistice who had captured Wuchow and the arrival of the large number of reinforcements from the North to do the garrisoning work of the province with the result that the mischievous people here can no longer find ground to fabricate rumours with the object of disturbing the money market.

Since the general situation of the city has no great bearing on the market value of the Central Bank notes, it is surmised that, judging by the high rate the notes are being quoted by the native banks the face value of the notes may return to normalcy before very long, despite the suspension of redemption.

It is reported that according to yesterday's market of the native banks, the buying rate of $1 Central Bank note was 91 cents while the selling rate was 94 cents.

From a reliable source it is learned that since redemption of the $1 notes may be commenced on the 15th instant as proposed by the authorities of the Central Bank, the rate of buying Central Bank notes has now increased from 91 to 93 cents for each dollar due to the big demand of notes by the public.—Canton Gazette.

far been taken to avoid difficulties which are likely to arise if similar understandings with Japan, France and Italy are not reached beforehand.

An ill-disguised fear that there may be a repetition of the abortive Geneva conference if this is not done, appears to be reflected in a statement by the Navy Minister, who expresses confidence that a practical agreement will be reached at the conference provided debatable subjects are thoroughly discussed in preliminary conversations, with an emphasis on this proviso.—Reuter.

How and Why
DR WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS
The World's Most Famous
Blood and Nerve Tonic.
Make Pallid Girls Rosy. Sad
Girls Happy. Sickly Girls Strong

The greatest affliction of woman-kind is that condition of blood impoverishment which is known as Anaemia. It is primarily to anaemia that most of woman's ailments are attributable; for example, those headaches, backaches, spells of dizziness and faintness, palpitations, breathlessness, and those periodical irregularities of health which almost every woman experiences at times.

Neglected, anaemia is an exceedingly dangerous malady, leading to permanent invalidism and even sometimes to premature death. Every sufferer from anaemia owes it to herself, therefore, to seek deliverance with all possible expedition. In innumerable cases this has been found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the most reliable and expeditious blood-builder yet discovered by medical science. "It is because of their wonderful blood-enriching and blood-making properties that Dr.

So banish the miseries of anaemia by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the world's outstanding tonic for the blood and nerves. All chemists sell them, $1.50 per bottle, $8 for six bottles. Nothing else will do.

Williams' Pink Pills have won such unbounded success in the treatment of this most stubborn disease.

Fresh evidence is forthcoming every day. One instance is the case of Miss P. Goff, of 129, Adelaide Road, St. Denys, Southampton, England, who says: "I suffered for years from anaemia. I was pale and breathless, and could not even go upstairs without getting palpitation. I always felt weak and ill, and suffered from severe headaches; for nights and nights I had no sleep. Doctor's medicine seemed to do no good. Eventually I became so bad that I had to give up my work."

"Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon I felt the benefit. I persevered with the pills until all traces of anaemia disappeared. Now my health is splendid and I feel like a different girl."

WOMAN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

The new tweeds! Heather tones of mauve, purple and green are featured in some of the nicest new tweeds, one of which is used for the neat little suit on the left, worn with a stone-colour silk blouse. A bold check tweed in fawn and brown makes the second model, which has the modish three-quarter coat, and is accompanied by a pale fawn jumper belted with the tweed.

Buttons and Button-Holes.

It is a good idea when you are stitching buttons on heavy articles like coats to place a smaller button at the back on the wrong side of the material and stitch through both buttons at the same time. This lessens the strain on the actual button and prevents the cloth being torn.

Leave the thread loose enough when stitching to give "play" to the button in case of a sudden pull; and use special button thread, not ordinary sewing cotton.

The tedious task of button-holing is almost done away with nowadays. So many garments have no fastenings at all, and for others press studs are chiefly used. When there are button-holes they are bound and certainly have a neater appearance.

A small square of the garment material is tacked over the place where the buttonhole is to be—right side to right side of garment. The buttonhole is then cut through all thicknesses (which includes, of course, the facing and its stiffening in the case of a coat).

The opening is next machine-stitched all round, close to the edge; the edges of the small square are then pushed through the opening, turned in, and hemmed neatly on the wrong side—the corners may be rounded off if preferred.

Evening Modes.

PARIS EXCELS HERSELF.

The silk manufacturers and the dressmakers have put their heads together and decreed that women in the evening shall be more tastefully dressed. They should be all that there is of the most magnificent.

These manufacturers, among them Ducharme, have made such gorgeous brocades, failles, moires, velvets, and chiffons that our maitres de la haute couture have been inspired to let themselves go in the making of dresses such as only great ladies or great beauties can wear with the right manner. A Lady Hamilton, a Clara Middleton, the Duchess of Guemene, would do them justice, but not any ordinary human being.

Not Interested.

"Frankly," says one of the leading designers in the haute couture, "I am not interested in the ordinary woman."

With yards of material at heaven knows what the yard, long dresses of brocade, velvet, moire, and printed lame, are being made. The bodice fits, has a high waistline with a narrow belt of the same material, a low cut back, a higher front, hips that are slimmer than ever and then such a flow of material as never was since the late Eighties.

Trains, loose draperies, flounces, all swim about the ankles lightly and capriciously. Those little feet like little mice peep in and out among them, and looked at in profile the figure of any great lady dressed as the maitres de la haute couture would have her dressed (and at what a price!) looks too exquisite, too slender, too fragile, for daily use in this troubled world.

For the average woman there are dresses in chiffon, in moire, in faille, and in velvet. A black faille dress with gold roses to make it less black, is used for a dress of great charm.

A Good Traveller.

There is a crispness about faille that is refreshing, and it does not crush badly. A good traveller taken all round.

But faille, like taffeta, has to have an accent, which is almost audacious.

In laquer, red, in purple, in light dahlia mauve, it looks charming. A velvet cloak goes with it, and for practical purposes nothing is better than a cloak of black velvet lined with broadened lame.

At the moment, chiffon dresses are almost, though not quite, as popular as ever. There are some over-yellow chiffon dresses with leaf patterns in yellow and orange. The designs are bold and very striking, and any woman who can wear them, a brunette or a very real blonde, does well to indulge in something of the kind.

A figured chiffon is, undoubtedly, more practical than a plain one; it looks less tumbled after packing, and the actual sewing of the material does not show so much.

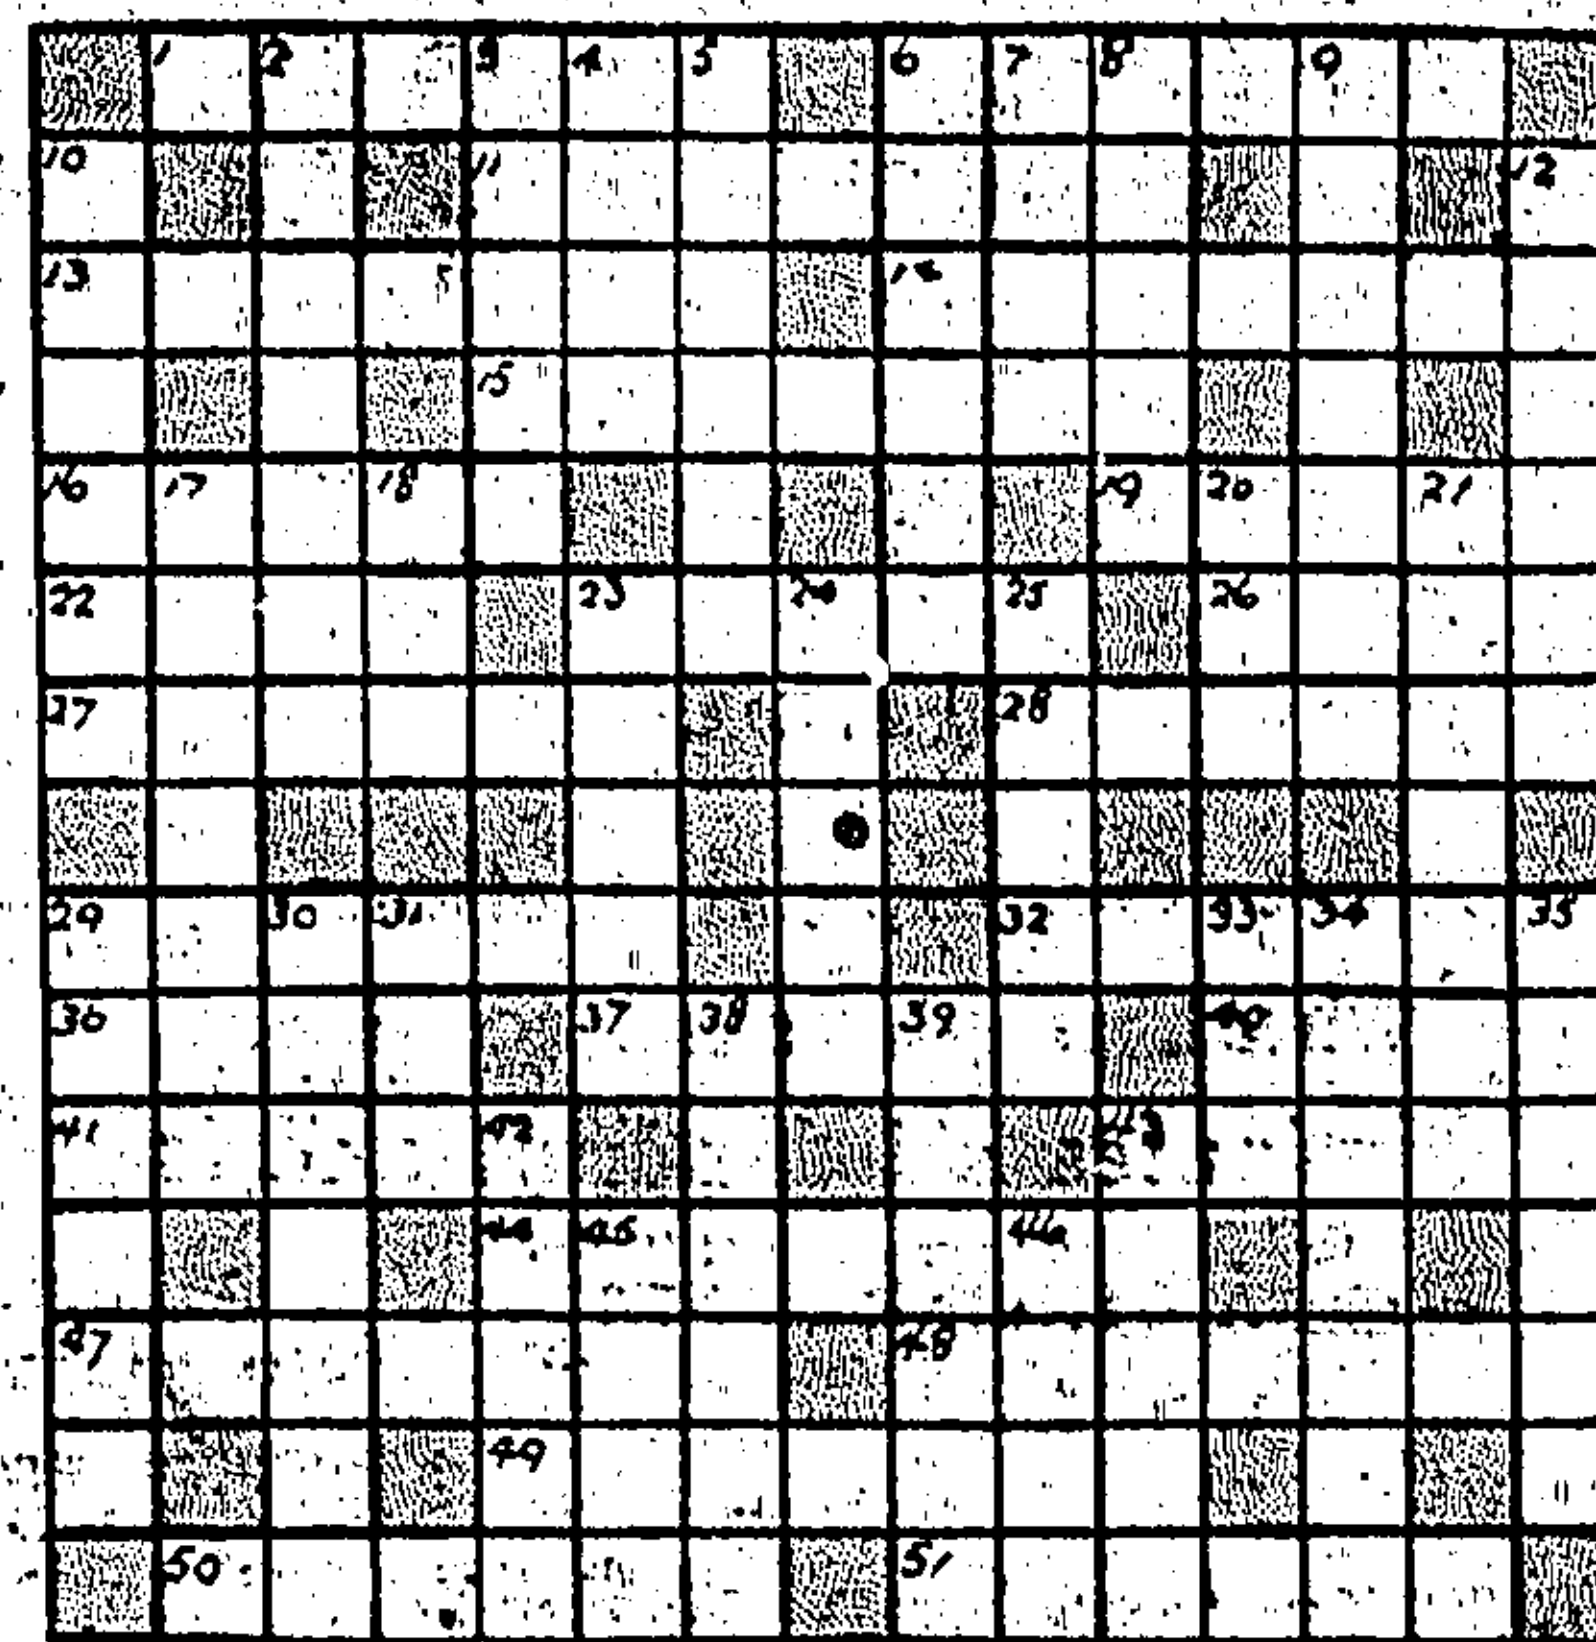

Many a plain chiffon looks old in its infancy, and that is a pity in an expensive dress. No woman wants her dress to look like an unstart, but there is a line to draw between the strikingly new and the used up old, and I think that black chiffon, white chiffon, frequently look used up before they have done any work, whereas a figure chiffon keeps fresh to the end.

No signs and colourings are better than Ducharme's this season. He is, they say, like an elder son of the old school. He has all the technical skill which experience gives and some modern ideas which that older school might set aside. His artist, Michel Dubost, is so far at it, and he is turning over the pages of his books of patterns is like looking at the loveliest of picture books.

For wear under a wrap coat is this useful little dress in blue and stone printed satin. It is very smart with its fitting bodice, moulded hip-line, and full skirt dipping only slightly at the back.

THE DISARMAMENT
OUTLOOK.

After the prolonged conversations between Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and the American Ambasador to Britain, it was only to be expected that the British Premier and President Hoover would soon come to agreement on the disarmament
question to such an extent
as to warrant the calling of a new conference. Long before Mr. Macdonald went to America, the ground had been exhaustively explored, with the result that only the crossing of the t's and the dotting of the i's was necessary. The upshot is that the invitations for the conference have now been sent out, and we may take it as a certainty that they will be accepted
in the spirit in which they have been issued. Remembering the fact that the United States and Britain found it impossible to adjust their viewpoints at the last conference, a very decided step forward has been registered by the reaching of a provisional agreement covering all points.

Here in the Far East, and, for that matter, throughout the world, much interest centres in Japan's attitude on the question. The discussions between Washington and London have from the start been closely followed in Tokyo. The financial position of Japan, though better, is still by no means as stable as the Government could wish. It is grasping, therefore,
every possible means of retrenchment. One such is the cessation of capital ship construction. In the best informed circles it is believed that the Japanese Government has reached a decision not to build any capital ships for a further period of five years starting in 1931. As a gesture of pacific intentions this move would be very well received in America and it augurs well for the prolonga-tion of the naval holiday. Unfortunately the attitude of Japan towards cruiser construction is not so clear. Recently, the Secretary of State for Naval Affairs declared that Japan would build two new 10,000 ton cruisers armed with eight-inch guns if the Anglo-American conversations did not reach a successful conclusion. Actually this means that Japan in the matter of cruisers wishes to revise the standard which she accepted in the matter of capital ships at Washington just after the war. Her technical advisers' attitude is that the absolute minimum ratio for Japanese security is 10, 10, 7 for America, Great Britain and herself respectively. This, it will be observed is somewhat higher than the present proportion of 5, 5, 3. In some quarters, regret is felt at Japan

placing her reliance in 10,000 ton cruisers. It would seem that at the back of her Admiralty's mind
there must lurk the fear that should a war take place, the Japanese Navy will be called upon to operate at a great distance from its base, without being able to have recourse to the naval stations of any other power. This suggests that the final consequences of the ratification of the Kellogg Pact have no more been thought out in the Far East than in technical quarters elsewhere.
The expert is still too inclined to think in terms of a war, it would appear.

Another of Japan's fears, apparently, is that any new limitation agreement which is reached may possibly involve her in some expansion of armaments to retain her relative position as between the other Powers. Here
the financial aspect of the question is no doubt the operating factor. At the moment, however, the main thing is to get the Powers together, and as the invitation is so couched as to call for opinions
from all concerned, there need be no fear that any point will be overlooked. It is particularly refreshing to note that no effort is made to set up new machinery to deal with disarmament, for there are already ample means for covering all the issues likely to be raised. The fact that the Kellogg Pact is the basis of the Anglo-American agreement is also so much to the good, for it reflects
the inspiring motives of both nations. If all the Powers are prepared to look upon armaments as parts of a world force for the protection of civilisation, then there should be no difficulty in reaching a new and comprehensive understanding.

The Double Tenth.

Another anniversary of the establishment of the Chinese Republic is being celebrated by all patriotic Chinese throughout the world to-day, the Double Tenth.
In normal circumstances, the occasion should be one of great national rejoicing, but, unfortunately, there is little in the record of the last twelve months and the present political situation, to give cause for satisfaction. On the other hand, there is indignation that China's progress has been seriously interrupted. The year has been marked by a renewal of petty strife between the warlords, active revolt against the present regime
in Nanking on more than one occasion, and ill-advised haste by the Chinese authorities in dealing with foreign affairs. The unifor-mation of the country, politically and economically, which is the first requirement if China is to take her rightful place in the comity of nations, seems as far off as ever. Half a dozen provinces at the most are whole-hearted in their allegiance to the central government, and the remainder pay lip-service as long as it suits their book. At the same time, China has become seriously embroiled
with Soviet Russia, and the Red troops line the border awaiting an excuse, or an opportunity for extending their raiding campaign
into real invasion. In the interior, Chang Kai-shek, no doubt encouraged financially by Moscow, is in

WAR OFFICE WINDOW
SMASHER.DOCK PROTEST AGAINST A MENTAL HOSPITAL.

London, Sept. 5.
Samuel Green, aged 22, of Milk-
street, Bristol, who was charged with smashing two windows at the War Office, Whitehall, was sentenced at Bow-street Police Court yesterday to one month's imprisonment.

It was stated at a previous hearing that when arrested Green said he was "down and out and wanted a night's lodging."

In November, 1927, according to police evidence, he was sentenced to six months' hard labour for theft, and while serving that sentence he was certified insane and removed to a mental hospital. On one or two occasions he escaped from the hospital.

Green declared that while serving a sentence of six months' hard labour he was sent to Springfield Mental Hospital, where he had to mix with maniacs.

"I remained there for about fifteen months," he added, "and generally acted as a servant.
When I protested to the doctors against being detained I was refused my discharge. Because I spoke the truth in the wards to some sane patients I was hushed up and taken over to a ward reserved for refractory patients."

"There I was brutally knocked down and trampled on and left at the mercy of five attendants."

Mr. Fry said that during the month the prison doctor would no doubt give the case his attention
and consideration.

active revolt, and while Nanking is doing its best to minimise the seriousness of the trouble, the despatch of thousands of troops to South China to defend Kwangtung against the Ironside threat would suggest that the danger is very real. The position, of course, seems favourable to Nanking, but there is reason to believe that much trouble still lies ahead of the Government even in Chang Fat-kwei's taught lesson. If we may suggest a reason, it is that the Government has not won the confidence of the people. While orders may be given in the best interests of the country, instructions issued from Nanking bear
the imprint of a dictatorship, under which a large part of the country is restless and dissatisfied.
The real hope for China, we believe, lies in a more democratic system of Government, which will earn respect at home and abroad.
On this day, the Double Tenth, we may express the good wishes of foreigners generally for the future of China. Our criticisms are not intended to be destructive,

SUN BATHING IN LONDON PARKS.MR. LANSBURY'S PLANS FOR OPEN SPACES.

The provision of better bathing facilities in the Serpentine, Hyde Park, and the possibility of arrangement for sun bathing in the London parks, are foreshadowed
by Mr. George Lansbury, M.P., First Commissioner of Works.

"I am especially anxious," he says "that children shall be happy in the parks and shall be able to bathe and play. For the older people I want more seats and flowers and all things pleasing to the eye."

"The Serpentine in Hyde Park
is a very lovely stretch of water
and is not used as fully as it should be. There is no dressing accommodation. Sooner or later, in my view, the Department must make provision for rational bathing facilities. Men and women should be able to bathe as freely
in the Serpentine as they do on the South Coast or on the Lido."

"All sorts of people bathe together in the sea and no harm but plenty of good comes to them:
why not in the Serpentine?"

"We are discussing sun-bathing with the Ministry of Health. I am not so silly as to think it would be allowed in a completely natural state. If it is decided that it is a good thing, I hope means will be found to provide facilities."

No Shelter from Rain.

"With regard to a shelter at Bushey Park, near Hampton Court, thousands of children go there for excursions, and we have not got a decent place for them to use should it rain. Is there not some public-spirited London citizen who would like to pay for a shelter at Bushey Park?"

"The unnecessary railings inside the London parks are being taken down. The credit rests with Sir Lionel Earle, the Permanent Secretary. All I had to do was to back him up and tell him to get them down as soon as possible."

"Removing the outside railings and therefore setting the parks
open at night is another matter.
The police object to open parks at night. Personally I see no reason why they should not be open at night. In the East End, within five minutes of Victoria Park, which is closed at dusk, you have the open spaces Hackney Downs, Hackney Common, London Fields,
and Hackney Marshes."

"Then near by are Wandstead Flats and Epping Forest. If people want to be wicked they are wicked. It is not a matter of facilities."

"Of course it could not be done
without the sanction of the House of Commons or in the face of a strong expression of public opinion."

THE 1929 GIRL.

IF HE WERE 40 YEARS YOUNGER.

If you would have beauty, fair
maiden,
The advice I would give you is simple—
Wrap your ankles in lace, put a sack
over your face,
And hide every defect—and dimple.

London, Sept. 17.
"In all forms of physical ex-posure women lose as much as they gain," says an article in the "Tailor and Cutter," replying to Professor Flugel, who, at the Congress of the World League for Sexual Reform, declared that women had gained a great deal by the principle of erotic exposure.

Tricking the Lovers.

"There has never been such an exhibition of feminine limbs as at present," the article says. "Not all agree that lifting the curtain
has increased women's advantages.
Their charm was formerly in the practice to be young women showing their best side to their lovers,
whatever their husbands found out later, but the sights now thrust
on young men are sufficient to stifle young love and drive off romance shuddering. Cupid himself would find it impossible to make a swain sigh for the owners of some of the ankles now exposed.
It would be better for women if their limbs were draped in mystery."

Under the Table.

Commenting on Bernard Shaw's dictum that the Victorian woman who was covered from head to foot
was a masterpiece of sex appeal,
the writer recalls that a famous Victorian statesman, asked to describe the dresses at a dinner party, replied: "I did not look under the table."
Replying to Mr. Shaw's opinion that woman's large step towards nudity had banished sex appeal,
he says: "Perhaps the reason is anno domini. It is possible that if Mr. Shaw were 40 years younger, the lightly-clad 1929 girl might upset his emotional apple cart."

The Very Idea!

A baby is not an act of God,
according to the Actors' Equity Association of America.

A production at a New York theatre was closed recently because the leading lady was about to become a mother.

The members of the cast claimed
a week's wages, but the producer refused to pay, on the ground that the management were not responsible for a fire, a strike or an act of God.

The Actors' Equity Association,
however, decided that a baby was none of these, and the cast were therefore entitled to be paid.

If its folk still live up to tradition, the little Devonshire town of Clovelly should furnish a good many members for the new Centenarians Club. "You're a wonderful old man," said a visitor,
after chatting with an old salt
on the beach, who gave his age
as 82. "Not near so wonderful as my old dad," said "the veteran,"
modestly. "Oh, and how long has
he been dead?" inquired the visitor. "Dead?" exclaimed the octo-genarian. "He's not dead. He's at home putting grandfather to bed."

I lit her cigarette; she puffed.
"Twas plain to see the dear was huffed.
Why—heaven knows. But what a pout!
And then a stifled yawn. No doubt
My vantage out.

I talked of that, I talked of this,
At last I gave her hand a kiss.
I watched the dimple in her chin,
I watched that cunning smile
begin.
My vantage in!

Again I lit her cigarette.
And then, Well, then I won the set.
For she was love, and I was yet
I heard her whisper, all the same:
"My game!"

Joan was having her first experience of the real country. On returning from a visit to the farm,
she burst in with the news:
"I've seen a baby calf. It was ever so young."

"How old do you think it was?"
"It wasn't old at all. It wasn't born yet. It was in a cart and they were taking it to its mother!"

Howlers again:
The Minister of War is the clergyman who preaches to the soldiers in the barracks.

Finally James the Second gave birth to a son so the people turned him off the throne.

A welsher is a native of Wales.

What are you waiting for," said
a lawyer to a negro who had paid
his money.

"Receipt," said the negro.
"A receipt," said the lawyer.
"What do you know about a receipt? Can you understand the nature of a receipt? Tell me, and I will give it to you."

"Well," said the negro, "I pose me die; me go to heben; me find gate locked; me see 'Postle Peter;
he say, 'Nigger, what you want?'
Me say, 'Want to get in.' He say,
'You pay that money?' What me do? Hab to hunt all over hell to find you."

WHO WAS—?

TRILBY.

It was inevitable that Little Billee Bagot, the art student should fall in love with Trilby O'Ferrall, the beautiful model of the Latin Quarter, for her kind heart and frank open nature charmed all men.

Little Billee, being a man of honour, wanted to marry
her, and Trilby was troubled.
She knew that the daughter of a Paris barmaid and an un-frocked Irish clergyman was not fit for an English gentleman, even if her past life was such that no man could throw a stone, which,
alas! was not the case. In-pure selfishness, she fled
from Paris and Little Billee,
in the company of a cruel, but clever, Jewish musician.

Trilby had a most marvelous
voice, but, strangely enough,
she was quite tone-deaf. The Jew, Svengali, possessed hypnotic powers, and under his influence she learned to sing, attaining world-wide fame.
At the height of her success
she again met Little Billee,
who begged her to come back to him. Then, suddenly and tragically, Trilby died, and Little Billee's chapter of romance closed for ever. He never married.

Such as Mr. George du Maurier's very tender and moving story of a loving, unhappy, but unselfish heart.

YACHTING NOTES.

[By "Chau Kung."]

With the wind fairly established in the East, great preparations are afoot amongst the racing fleet of the Yacht Club.

There have been several changes in ownership among the Club Fleet and in other cases deputies are sailing the craft for members on leave. It will be to the benefit of the new owners if they participate in the preliminary race on Saturday and join in the Club Cruise which is being arranged for the week-end. The rendezvous is to be at Hang Hau. A start being made from the Club House on Saturday morning at 10.30 a.m. The usual series of races will take place between the boats which turn out and should afford members an opportunity for tuning up their boats preparatory to the first Championship race which is fixed for the last Saturday of the month, I believe.

Some amusing inaccuracies are perpetrated by reporters who are not versed in the language or jargon of sailing and who—for their sins, doubtless—are cast for writing up yachting events. We recently had it broadcasted to the world that "Germany had beaten the United States in the big 30 metre yacht race." The reporter unfortunately did not appreciate the significance of the "square" before the "metre." The race actually was between a team of yachts which were constructed to a limit of displacement and sail area the latter not to exceed 30 square metres or about 330 square feet that is approximately a little less than the canvas which is carried by the "X" class sailing in these waters. The mistake, unless recognised as such, might have led people to believe that the competing vessels were bigger even than the "Vanity," the last "defender" of the "America," Cup or His Majesty's "Britannia," the late Mortimer Singer's "Astra," the "Lulworth," "Cambrin," "White Heather" and last but not least Sir Thomas Lipton's "Shamrock" all of which are about 23 metres measurement.

Sir Thomas's new challenger which will compete in September next, in his fifth attempt to lift the Cup will also be about 23 metres in measurement and probably about 75 feet on the water line with a displacement of about 180 or 200 tons and carrying 8 to 9,000 square feet or one fifth of an acre of canvas, whilst a vessel of 30 metres would probably displace about 400 tons and carry 15,000 sq. ft. of canvas—truly a field of cotton.

Another amusing "break" was by a reporter of whom better things were to have been expected since he was writing in The Pailmouth Packet—what a name to conjure with, what visions of Samuel Kelly arise—who stated that "Candida" won by a few lengths from "White Heather," whereas it was actually a matter of three or four minutes and in the breeze that was blowing, the vessels would be logging 8 to 10 knots or sailing a mile in 8 to 7 minutes, so the win in distance must have been better than half a mile.

I hear the first race for the Championship of the Racing Yacht Classes is to be sailed on Saturday 26th. inst. whilst the Opening Cruise and Ladies Day is likely to take place on the first Saturday in November. Some rowing events are being arranged for this date with the view of getting the crews together for their visit to Canton on an interport matter.

CINEMA NOTES.

INTERESTING PICTURES NOW SHOWING.

Ageing, one of the technical arts of motion picture making, was employed by Universal during the use of the theatre set in the big Laura La Plante mystery special, "The Last Warning" which is showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

One moment, a epic and span new theatre, everything ready as for an opening performance; a moment later, the theatre is a wreck; dust covers everything, the paint is faded, the pipes rusting—the wings fading apart, the curtains disintegrating, cobwebs everywhere.

Many methods of making thin-air look old were employed for this transformation. First to be aged were the signs. Air brushes with a special fading paint, a thin tone which permitted the original colouring to show through faintly, was sprayed over everything. Then all joints in the plumbing and along pipes were painted with a thick brown paint which was quickly heated with a blow torch. This bubbled the paint and gave it the impression of rust on the screen.

Point of a slightly different shade from that used in first painting the theatre was promiscuously sprayed around, which gave the impression of fading and water streaks. Then the whole set was sprayed with dirty water which added to the eerie effect.

By means of a special machine, cobwebs were placed all over the set. This machine, patented by Universal, makes cobwebs by employing the idea of a candy floss machine using a mixture of liquid rubber, glue and other ingredients, instead of sugar. A special dust was sprayed over the cobwebs to give them the proper photographic qualities.

Finally several tons of Fuller's earth were blown into the auditorium and back stage and allowed to settle.

Star Theatre.

Many people dread two things—total paralysis and death by fire. When a young man, happily married, is confronted by both, and sees his wife menaced by the latter as he lies helpless, there's tense, vivid drama—the kind that chills the blood and holds one breathless with horror.

Such is one of the situations in "The Country Doctor," in which Rudolph Schildkraut plays the title role, and which is showing at the Star Theatre from to-day until Saturday. It was directed by Rupert Julian, who made "The Yankee Clipper," "Merry-Go-Round" and "Three Faces East." It is said that "The Country Doctor" surpasses his previous triumphs.

In addition to Mr. Schildkraut, the featured players in the cast are Junior Coghlan, San De Grasse, Virginia Bradford and Louis Nathanau. The screen play was written by Beulah Marie Dix.

HONGKONG RADIO.

EARLY BROADCASTING IN THE COLONY.

The first broadcasting experiments in Hongkong were carried out about eight years ago when transmissions were made between the Hongkong Hotel and the Hongkong Telegraph office, then in Ice House Street.

Later came the formation of the Hongkong Radio Society in 1923 and edit for much of the early work goes to Messrs. C. D. Melbourne, W. E. Orchard, G. Taylor, and D. Tollen, who were officers of the Society during its career. In 1923 also test transmissions were carried out by a private company which broadcast grand opera excerpts from the Star Theatre. The following years saw little progress but various demonstrations were given.

In 1926, the Radio Society embarked on a more ambitious programme of test concerts with the object of providing radio entertainment for members and showing that there was scope for a broadcasting organisation in Hongkong. A number of concerts were organised in the hope that sufficient interest would be aroused to warrant the institution of a broadcasting service by others whose scope was less limited than the Society. In 1927 the transmitter used for these concerts was taken over by the Y.M.C.A. Entertainment Committee, but a scheme to provide radio entertainment for the increased garrison was abandoned owing to a reduction of the number of troops here. Broadcasting by the Government started in 1928.

WIRELESS MERGER A BIG "MISTAKE."

NEW ZEALAND PREMIER'S DENUNCIATION.

Wellington (N.Z.), Aug. 27.

Speaking in the House of Representatives on the introduction of the measure formally approving of New Zealand's acquiescence in the recent wireless and cable merger, Sir Joseph Ward, the Prime Minister, expressed his strong disapproval of the transaction.

"I think," he said, "that the British Government made a huge mistake in giving up its superior interest in the Beam system to enable the Eastern Telegraph Company to become part proprietors with them. After the announcement of the merger there was a phenomenal rise in the shares, and a lot of money was made. The whole thing was a very regrettable transaction. The merger company is now able to dictate its terms."

"The fact that the British Government had agreed to let us all go was an unfortunate and wrong thing, from the point of view of both the Pacific Cable and the Empire's future."

Sir Joseph Ward said he was sorry that New Zealand had had no opportunity of protesting against the sale of the Pacific Cable. The country would probably never again have an opportunity of becoming part owner of such a cable.—Reuter.

WARWICK REVUE CO.

Rex Burchell, pictured above, is one of the principal fun-makers with the Warwick Revue Company, which commences its season to-night at 9.15 p.m., at the Star Theatre, Kowloon, with "The Peep Show," a breezy revue which is just the tonic we want to cheer us up after the hot weather. "The Peep Show" will be repeated to-morrow night. On Saturday and Sunday evenings "High Lights," another rib-tickling revue, full of fun and frivolity, will be shown. Plans are at Moutrie's and the Star Theatre. To-day being a holiday, booking will be at the Star Theatre all day. Booking will be open again also, at Moutrie's to-morrow, as usual, for the season.

AIR PILOTS' KNOWLEDGE.

EXAMINERS' CAUSTIC COMMENTS.

Answers given by candidates at the R.A.F. promotion examinations last February are the subject of pointed criticism in a report just issued.

Air Commodore F. W. Bowhill, Director of Organisation and Staff Duties at the Air Ministry, commenting on the report, states that "officers should realise that, in order to pass a written examination, they require not only a sound book knowledge of the subjects specified in the syllabus, but the ability to apply such knowledge and to express their answers briefly and logically."

In addition to defects, such as bad writing, bad spelling, poor composition, carelessness in reading instructions and questions, and irrelevance, the sketches and diagrams submitted, with few exceptions, were very poor.

The following are some of the comments of the examiners:

Most candidates did not appear to understand the word "characteristics," and nearly all the answers lacked essential facts.

Examiners Left "Cold." Many candidates endeavoured to cloak their inability to answer a question by using high-sounding or irrelevant phrases. Examiners are not impressed by such sentences as "the bombardment of the enemy's strategic and tactical positions."

Candidates intended that certain flying boats should be able to bomb enemy vessels, but failed to arrange for a supply of bombs. In many instances one or more of the following were omitted.

Moorings, fuel, motor boat and dinghies, repair facilities, transport, accommodation, rations, signals, and additional personnel. It was apparent that many candidates did not know that the word "seaplane" includes flying. One candidate opened with the statement: "Malta is the home of the Maltese," and another with "Aden is a fortified rock lying about 100 miles east of the bottom of the Red Sea."

Most candidates inferred that practically all shipping between England and Australia took the Suez route, while two stated that "the Cape route is a fortnight or more longer than the Suez."

It is mentioned that the difference is about 1,000 miles or three days' steaming.

CHINA NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

All officials of the "recommended" rank are required to be present at the Provincial Government Office for the observance of the ceremony of the Anniversary.

There will be no public procession, although schools and colleges may have processions by giving notice to the authorities.

An inspection of troops, namely, a brigade of the 63rd Division, will take place at the East Parade Ground at 10 a.m. The members of the labour unions will also assemble on the Parade Ground for general celebration.—Canton News Agency.

HOW THE B.B.C. WILL SAY IT.

WORDS ANNOUNCERS FIND DIFFICULT.

A further list of words, the pronunciation of which has apparently been causing some wireless announcers' uneasiness, has been analysed by the B.B.C. Advisory Committee on Spoken English, and the results of their investigation is embodied in an official statement issued recently.

The Committee is presided over by Dr. Robert Bridges, the Poet Laureate, and consists of Mr. George Bernard Shaw, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, Mr. Logan Pearsall Smith, Professor Daniel Jones, and Mr. A. Lloyd James.

Most of the words in the present statement are indicated in what must be the usual pronunciation, but the average listener will find himself a little perplexed by some words in their newly decreed form.

Many people will note with some surprise, for instance, that "decadence" becomes "decaydence," torando "tornaydo," and zebra "zeebra."

"Ass" is made to rhyme with "lass," and "off" is definitely "off" as distinct from "awit," "Coxswain" and "forecastle" are given their accepted nautical pronunciation of "cox'n" and "fokse."

When considering a few foreign words the Committee, while giving the pronunciation of some, content themselves in the case of "nuance" with the comment "as in French," and "kussal" "as in German." "Messrs" they have decided, shall definitely be "messers," while Port Said is to be "Port Sayd."

Long or Short?

Mr. Lloyd James, Lecturer in Phonetics at London University and Secretary of the Committee on Spoken English, discussing the Committee's latest findings, says:

"Those who speak South-Eastern English are quite uncertain as to whether the word 'lass' should rhyme with such words as 'pass,' which they pronounce long, with such words as 'lass,' which they pronounce short. The rest of the English-speaking world has no doubts about these words: 'lass' and 'pass' are good rhymes everywhere, except in the mouths of those who speak what some people call Standard English."

"The word 'lass' has failed to make up its mind which way it will go, so the Committee has decided that it shall rhyme with 'lass.' It would really be a very good thing if all these words went the same way, and it would not be surprising if they did."

"The other word 'off' is much more commonly used. Here again the South-East is mainly responsible for the long vowel, which we hear not only in 'off,' but in words like cough, 'often,' 'cross,' 'gone,' 'cloth,' &c., which are generally pronounced in the South-East, by speakers of anything over twenty years of age, as 'cawff,' 'awffen,' 'crawss,' 'gawn,' and 'clawth.' I find that young students, in places like the University of London and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, definitely reject 'cawff,'

CANADIAN WHEAT TOO DEAR.

ELEVATORS FILLED AND 120 GRAIN BOATS IDLE.

Montreal, Aug. 20. With the Montreal terminal elevators filled to capacity and new wheat rapidly filling the country elevators, serious congestion is feared, and 120 Lake boats and 1,800 men are idle.

European buyers are avoiding the Canadian market, as prices are generally 20 cents per bushel higher than American and Argentine wheat. Some quarters blame the wheat pool for holding wheat on a gamble as to whether the Argentine December crop will prove a failure.

Ocean shipping from Montreal is also seriously affected and sailors are migrating to American ports to find work.

Some American wheat has entered Canada in Saskatchewan, paying 12 cents duty and underselling Canadian wheat by 25 cents. Local boards of trade complain that the tariff is "not protecting Canadian wheat and point out that Canadian wheat pays 42 cents duty to enter the United States."

Only one tramp steamer loaded with wheat at Montreal last week, compared with fifteen normally. Agitation is under way to ask the Government to force the wheat pool to reduce prices.

LAWN BOWLS.

SHANGHAI AGAIN BEATEN BY A SINGLE SHOT.

For the third time the Shanghai lawn bowlers have been beaten by a single shot. They visited Talkoo yesterday afternoon and were defeated by 22 shots to 21. At one time it looked as if Talkoo were going to get a runaway victory, for at the eleventh head they were leading by 16-5. Surveying the score, Malcolm remarked "We'll catch the boat back to-morrow, boys."

However, when Shanghai did get the jack after having failed to score on six successive heads, Glover gave short heads all the time and thanks to some brilliant work on the part of Malcolm in trailing the jack on two occasions, the visitors wiped out the deficit and were 20 all at the nineteenth head. Then Talkoo claimed a couple, and they also held the advantage all the way through on the last head, until Malcolm came up with a smasher and removed the jack to one of his own woods. There was a measure for the second, but Talkoo got it and thus won by a single shot.

The heavy green did not suit the Shanghai players and they took a long time to settle down. Yesterday had to do some very fine woods. Wallace had little to do at skip, but that little was done very well indeed.

Talkoo started off in great style, claiming a four on the first head. At the fifth head the score was five all. Then, however, Talkoo ran away, scoring on six heads right off the reel. At the seventh, they claimed three, thanks to a well drawn shot by Chalmers, and two good woods by Young and again at the tenth—a very bad head indeed, in which nearly all the players were short—they had a three count. They led at 16-5 and again at 19-7.

Shanghai's Recovery. Then it was that Shanghai No. 1 began throwing a short jack and this made a lot of difference. Four heads running went to Shanghai, with two twos, a three and a four. At the sixteenth Malcolm took Talkoo out and claimed three and at the seventeenth he trailed the jack on to three of Shanghai's back woods and got four. The score at this stage was 10-18. A single to Talkoo and two to Shanghai on the following heads brought the score level at 20 all at the nineteenth head. The play was very keen on the twentieth, first one side and then the other lying the shot. Wallace drew a beauty and gave Talkoo a lead of two. The last head was very exciting. Talkoo were lying at least two. Dorrance tried a "Yangtze" and only just failed. Then Malcolm came up with a heavy drive and scattered the bowls and jack. Shanghai got a single cut of it and were thus beaten by one shot. Details follow.

CLUB DEFEAT TEAM FROM PUNJABI REGIMENT.

The Hongkong Hockey Club defeated the 3/15 Punjabi team in an exciting game at the U.S.R.C. ground last evening, by 3 goals to 2. W. Woodward, of the Hongkong side, was struck by a stick during a tussle round the ball, and sustained a slight head wound. It did not prevent him from continuing in the game, however.

At the conclusion of the match, Mr. G. McLeod thanked the visiting players for their presence, for the sporting way in which they had played and for the exciting finish they had made of the match.

Mrs. Laing presented spoons to the Shanghai players.

Mr. Malcolm, replying, said that was his third visit to Talkoo. He sympathized with the Shanghai players in having to play on a heavy and somewhat difficult green. He congratulated the winners on their display and added that despite the lavish hospitality which they had received on their visit, the Shanghai players always managed to put up a good game. They had met some strong teams and he was not disappointed with the displays they had given.

Mr. Malcolm then presented spoons to the Talkoo players.

YEE SANG FAT

THE SHINING TALENT.

By Eleanor Early.

CHAPTER XII.

The plot thickened. Perry Ingersoll, according to Red, had gone to Bernice's apartment on the day her body was found with the marriage license and a wedding ring in his pocket. He had, in fact, shown them both to Red and Slim Boynton.

He had another fellow with him that morning. A boy from the university who was going to be his best man. Bernice didn't want any bridesmaid, for all her gorgeous wedding gown. She said she couldn't trust women, and she hadn't a girl friend in the world. They were going to drive to the house of some man Bernice knew, who was a justice of the peace, and the ceremony was to be performed there. Then they were all going back to the apartment for a wedding breakfast.

"But I don't understand," interrupted Molly. "You say Ingersoll and his best man went to the apartment that morning. But Bernice's body wasn't found until afternoon. She'd given her maid the day off, you remember. The janitor found her that afternoon, when he went in on business. And the medical examiner said she'd been dead for some hours. Now if Ingersoll had been there in the morning, as he says, he'd have found her then."

"He did!" triumphed Red. "That's just it! Bernice was dead at nine o'clock. Cold as ice, the kid says."

"But he didn't give the alarm?" "You're darn right, he didn't give the alarm. The boy's not so dumb as he acts. Anyhow he's a weicher. I told you that already, didn't I? He was scared. Scared to death. And you can't blame him much at that, Molly. There wasn't anything he could do for her. And, naturally, there was going to be a row. Police and all that."

"Nobody knew that Ingersoll had anything to do with Bernice. There wasn't a chance of dragging him into an investigation. Not so long as he kept his mouth shut. Maybe his friend, the best man, had the cooler head of the two. I don't know. Anyhow they made a safe get-away. And nobody saw them."

Red paused. And a dramatic silence fell between them.

"Well," he demanded, "what do you think of that?"

Molly shook her head. "I don't know. It rather does away with the suicide theory, doesn't it?"

"Absolutely," agreed Red. "Didn't I tell you she'd ordered groceries and champagne for a wedding breakfast? Nobody does things like that, and then takes a dose of cyanide."

"No," she said. "No, I suppose not. What does Ingersoll think, Red?"

"Hell, Ingersoll knows!" Red dropped his cigarette on the rug, and ground it fiercely into Molly's precious Kashmir. His eyes were blazing.

Like a good story teller, Red had saved his climax. And now, having reached it, the horror of the thing seemed to engulf him.

"Bernice had a date the night before," he said. "And that date was with Barrows!"

"You mean," whispered Molly, "Barrows killed her?"

Red shrugged his shoulders. "Circumstantial evidence," he admitted. "He had an alibi, of course. Said he spent the evening at home with his wife. Lord, that's no alibi! Mrs. Barrows was just naturally a go-through sort. She lied for him that's all."

"But I should think Ingersoll would have been a state witness!" exclaimed Molly.

"No, he had sense enough to keep out of it," repeated Red. "You can't blame him for that. Bernice was dead. It wasn't as if he could do anything for her. Naturally, he thought of his folks. It would have been sweet for his mother, wouldn't it, having him mixed up with a girl like Bernice, and the papers full of it? Besides, if he'd talked, he'd have been suspected himself. Imagine if he'd kicked up a rumpus there, and anybody'd come in!"

Molly laughed hysterically. "You know what would have happened?" she cried. "We'd all have remembered that poem of Oscar Wilde's about the man who was hung for killing his sweet heart, and we'd have quoted these lines:

"And blood and wine were on his hands
When they found him with the dead,
The poor dead woman whom he loved,
And murdered in her bed."

Red slapped her on the shoulder. "Attagirl!" he approved. "That's the old punch, Molly. Sob stuff straight from the muses. Well, what do you think, dear? Am I right? Or am I wrong? Is there a plot there for a play, or isn't there?"

"Of course there is," she agreed. "It could open with the trial of Barrows."

"And sum up all the evidence in the first act," broke in Red. "Make a regular mystery of it, you know. Might even make the testimony point toward some other guy. Then switch it around again, and when you got the audience thinking it was Barrows, suddenly acquit him. Make a great anti-climax of that."

"Then open the third act with that place on Beacon Hill," interrupted Molly eagerly, "and the Ingersoll kid crying."

"How'd you end it?" demanded Red. "Make a mystery out of it?"

"Oh, no," demurred Molly. "We'd have to have a surprise climax. Maybe we could convict Ingersoll. . . . No, that would be too obvious. We might drag the best man in."

She was very excited now. Her cheeks were flushed, and her eyes were blazing with an uncanny light.

"Oh, Red," she cried, "do you think we could do it?"

Red blushed furiously. "Gosh!" he muttered. "I can't write. I'm only a police court reporter. But there's your plot, Molly. Go to it, old girl!"

"He took her hand awkwardly. 'I'm awful keen on you, you know, Molly.'"

"Red!" she exclaimed, and thought, guiltily, of Jack. "You're not making love to me, my friend?"

"Love!" he repeated. "Now, Molly, be your size."

"Well, I didn't really think you were," she protested. "But I thought I'd better be sure, Red, because you see I have a boy. And I'm pretty crazy about him myself. I wouldn't want you to get me wrong."

"Yes," Red shrugged non-committally. "Well, remember what I told you about getting married, dear. 'On to Gehenna,' like the poet says, 'or up to the throne, he travels fastest who travels alone.' You don't want to forget that, Molly."

"I won't," she promised. "You haven't any idea, Red, how anxious I am to have a career. Why, the very thought of writing a play—feel my heart, Red!"

Red was beating beneath her ruffled blouse, like a fluttering bird. "I'm so excited," she confessed, "and so absolutely crazy, that I think I could write your play, Red."

"My play?" he scoffed. "It's your play, dear. Will you get to work on it, Molly?"

"Oh, I will!" she promised. "I will!"

And—happily—thoughtlessly—she threw her arms about his neck. "You dear old Red!" she cried.

Red kept his arms stiffly at his sides, and the colour drained from his thin, flushed cheeks, so that the freckles stood out, big and bold, like a small boy's.

"I'll write nights," she declared. "Every night. I'll begin tomorrow."

But the next day Molly was unexpectedly assigned to cover a murder trial in another state.

"They called the defendant an anarchist and a bolshevik. But that was wrong, for he was just a gunman, and it was a mistake to call him long, brave names. Because many people came to believe him unjustly persecuted, and some thought he was being prosecuted for his convictions, rather than for the murder of which he stood accused."

It was the murder of an old man who was night watchman at a factory where the defendant was said to have entered, for the purpose of robbery. Chicago knew the defendant for a gunman, and his record was bad. There was, however, a good deal of hysterical sympathy for him.

The judge, who was said to be prejudiced against the accused man, was fearful of an attack, and had requested police protection. State witnesses were also protected. And the jury would be guarded day and night.

The city editor called Molly to his desk before she had time to slip off her coat.

"You're familiar with the Mandinello case, of course," he said. "But I want to tell you about the elaborate precautions they're taking for the protection of Judge Brewster and the witnesses for the prosecution. It's as much as your life is worth these days to take issue with a gunman."

"We don't try murder cases in the paper. It's bad business, and it's dangerous. But we're going to take a stand on this thing. We believe Mandinello is guilty, and we're just about going to say so. Going to Europe or America?

Five Reasons for President Liner Preference

- 1 California fruits, vegetables and dairy products are served every meal throughout the voyage.
- 2 Every stateroom is on an outside deck and is equipped with running hot and cold fresh water, thermos bottles and reading lamps. Twinbeds of the finest manufacture are standard equipment in every stateroom on the President Liners.
- 3 There is a swimming bath aboard every President Liner. It is refilled daily... And is always available for use.
- 4 A College orchestra, versatile in its musical accomplishments plays for luncheon, tea-dancing, dinner and for evening parties.
- 5 See Egypt at no additional cost, and without loss of time. Many passengers avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing Egypt by leaving their President Liner at Suez, going by motor to Cairo and rejoining ship at Alexandria three days later.

On your next trip to Europe or America
travel on the President Liners.

AMERICAN BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT THE ORIENT.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has organized an "around the Pacific cruise," and for the purpose has chartered the palatial steamship Malolo. This cruise includes representative business men from all the cities on the Pacific Coast and from various industrial and commercial centres of the United States. Therefore, it is in the truest sense comprehensive of United States trade. Those on the trip will be prepared and equipped to discuss American trade relations and it is hoped that there will be an opportunity for them to meet local business men who are interested in the subject.

This cruise will be headed by the Past President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Charles C. Moore, who was President of the Panama Pacific International Exposition. Mr. Moore has had many contacts with foreign countries and the trip itself has been arranged by him.

The party will be making sight-seeing and shore excursions under the aegis of the American Express Co., and they hope to meet on board the Malolo local merchants and others who have business and other matters to discuss.

The visitors expect to be in Hongkong on October 24. The itinerary will include visits to Yokohama, Tokyo, Nikko, Kyoto, Kobe, Miyajima, Chinwangtao, Peking, Shanghai, Manila, Saigon, Bangkok, Singapore, Batavia, Buitenzorg, Fremantle, Perth, Melbourne, Sydney, Auckland, Rotorua, Suva, Pago Pago, Hilo and Honolulu. The Malolo will voyage 24,000 miles and visit fourteen countries. Half the time of the tour will be spent on land; the other half in cruising the waters of the Pacific, often with picturesque coasts in view.

This will be the first cruise ever to include both the Orient and Australasia.

"NEW" C. P. R. LINER.

EMPRESS OF CANADA DOES 22.4 KNOTS.

The glittering white Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada was practically a new ship when she reached Southampton from the Clyde, where she has been re-engined by the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., who originally built her in 1921. Apart from the installation of single-reduction in place of double-reduction turbines, extensive alterations and modifications have been made in her public rooms, and the result of the changes has been made a worthy partner for the new Empress of Japan, which is now building for the Pacific service.

The Empress of Canada remained at Southampton a few days before sailing for Quebec and back again, and she was then to commence a voyage to New York and thence to Vancouver, where she will change crews with the Empress of France, which has been taking her place on the Pacific service while the re-engining has been carried out.

Capt. J. Gillies, C.B.E., general manager of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., stated in an interview that the Empress of Canada was re-engined with a view to increasing her speed to 21 knots, but on trials run on August 7 and 8 she averaged 22.4 knots, and met the builders' guarantees as regards speed and consumption in every detail.

Latest news from upriver indicates that all is quiet, the rebels having gone inland. It is revealed that during the Ichang affair, Shao Wan-shun went aboard the gunboat Welschen, from where he "directed operations against the mutineers." It is expected Shao will return here as soon as possible to report on the situation to

A General Attack.

Canton, Oct. 9.
Upon the arrival of Chan Chingtong at Wuchow on October 7, a military conference was held that evening at the branch headquarters of the 8th Route Army, where the officers and staff of Gen. Chan are now being accommodated. It is said that orders were issued to land and naval forces to move forward on the 8th and 9th to begin operations against the Kwangsi insurgents. According to press information obtained from the headquarters of the 62nd Division yesterday, the troops of this division have been ordered to advance overland from Yung-hui to Tang-yuan, and that those of the 59th Division will move up by river to Chum-kiang, with instructions to act jointly with the navy.

The general attack is expected to commence on October 10, in the upper districts of Wuchow, where the troops are to be concentrated.
The 60th Division under the command of General Tsiang-ting-kai
have also been ordered to advance to a certain point from which they will attack the rebels in three directions. It is also learned that the forces of General Yang Ting-fai who are at present at Luichow are under orders to move towards Chumchow from which point
they will direct the attack against the rebels at Nanning. It is said that the forces will meet at Kwei-ping and Kwei-yang, at a certain date. The districts vacated by General Yang Ting-fai's troops will be occupied by the Kwangtung forces.

Control of Wuchow.

After the advance of the above
troops to the upper river districts, Wuchow and the places along the Fu River will come under the control of the 63rd Division, according to the order of the Commander-in-Chief: General Li Yang-king, commander of the 63rd Division, upon receipt of the above order, has given instructions to his command for transshipment to Wuchow.

Yesterday morning the brigade
under the command of Brigadier General Wong Chut-man were ordered to assemble at the East Parade Ground to receive an address by General Li, while the brigade under the command of Brigadier General Wong Ting-ching this morning were also given an address by the General.
After the departure of this Division, which has been protecting Canton, the safety of the city will be placed in the hands of the district militia and police. Other regiments will be assigned to cooperate with these two units in the protection of Canton, bringing up the total amount of forces to seven thousand.

It is reported that the National 18th Division, which marched down from Kulkang under the command of General Tan Taiyan, arrived at Nam Hung on the 8th and are awaiting further instructions from headquarters.—

PEOPLE WHO PREFER TO FLY.

BUSINESS MEN, ACTORS AND AMBASSADORS.

Paris, Aug. 21.
The volume of air traffic at Le Bourget reached a record on Saturday, when 26 aeroplanes left carrying 130 passengers with six tons
of luggage and six cwt. of mail.
On the same day 23 aeroplanes arrived with 120 passengers, five tons of luggage, eight cwt. of mail.

It has been observed that the most regular air travellers are business men, actors, artists, ambassadors, doctors, and jockeys,
while well-known people who prefer to fly whenever convenient are Lord Melchett, Sir Walter Gibbons,
Prince Eric of Denmark, Jack Hyllon with all his band and their instruments and a number of music hall, cinema, and stage
stars, including Pola Negri, Gaby Morlar, and Rosie Dolly.

The popularity of flying is greatest among Americans, followed by English, Germans, and Japanese. As for the French, it has been a hard fight as always to make them alter their habits,

A PRETTY CANTON WEDDING.

MISS D. PAGET MARRIED TO MR. L. WERNER.

POPULAR RESIDENTS.

Shameen, Oct. 9.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated here to-day on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Paget, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Souders Paget, to Mr. Ludwig Werner, only son of
Mr. and Mrs. Werner, of Hamburg, Germany.

The wedding was celebrated in the beautiful home of the bride's mother, at Paak Hok Tung, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Dr.
A. J. Fisher performing the ceremony. The bride was beautifully decorated and formed a most fitting setting to a really lovely wedding.

The bride, who was given away
by Mr. W. F. Gilman, wore white satin and lace over a white, satin dress with a veil of white, tulle,
and a lace cap caught up with orange blossom, and carried a bouquet of white roses, and a white chain of love and maiden hair fern.

Miss Marion Lockwood was the maid of honour, and Miss Teddy Hunter and Miss Priscilla Thompson the train bearers. The maid of honour wore a white organdie
and lace over pale pink satin dress,
and carried a bouquet of pink roses and maidenhair fern, while the little train bearers looked very sweet in white organdie and lace
over, pale blue, carrying silver baskets with tea roses and maid-enhair fern.

The bride's mother wore a beige
georgette over beige crepe satin dress and carried a bouquet of salmon pink gladioli.

Mr. F. Petersen attended the bridgroom as "best man."

A very large number of guests was present at the house where a reception was held after the ceremony, and many friends also assembled at the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Company's wharf at 4.30 p.m. to speed
the newly married couple on their honeymoon. They left by the s.s.
Taishan for Hongkong en route for Cheung Chau, where the honeymoon will be spent.

The young bride looked extremely pretty in her going-away dress which consisted of a beige, silk dress and comb with shous, stockings and hat to match.

The great number of beautiful presents received by the young couple amply testified to their great popularity amongst Canton residents.

Prior to the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, the civil ceremony was performed at 10.20 in the morning by Dr. Jur.
Wagner, Consul-General for Germany, at the German-Consulate in
the Ku Nam Tong Building, Canton.—Our Own Correspondent.

FAMOUS GUIDE KILLED

FALLING STONE ACCIDENT.

Berne, Sept. 3.

The British Alpine climber and ski expert, Mr. Richard Kay, had an escape from death while climbing the "Dent Blanche" (14,318 feet) yesterday morning.

Mr. Kay had set out with two guides, Franz Taugwalder and Alfred Aufdenglaten, and as they were approaching the top
they were passed by two English tourists and a guide, who were also all roped together.

When Mr. Kay and his guides reached the spot known as the Grand Gendarme, a stone, which was probably detached by mis-chance by the first party, came bounding down the hillside and struck Taugwalder on the nape
of the neck. He let go his hold,
and fell down the precipice they were skirting, dragging Mr. Kay with him.

The other guide jumped aside and twisted the rope round a stone, which gave him sufficient purchase to hold up his two comrades. After dragging them back, he found that Taugwalder
had been killed by the blow he had received, while Mr. Kay had sustained a nasty wound in the head and had a bruised knee.

A relief column was able to reach the scene of the accident,
and with great difficulty brought in Mr. Kay and the body of the unfortunate Taugwalder, who was the father of three children. He was one of the best known guides in Zermatt.

Mr. Kay is well known in Zermatt, and one of the famous ski jumps is called by his name.

but there are signs that an increasing number are using the air

The goods carried by air are usually in the category of luxuries,

More Than Had Hoped.

Washington, Oct. 9.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent, said: "I have achieved more than I had hoped. One thing possible during the short visit was to get into personal contact with the President and to get a pronouncement that Anglo-American policy would be conducted on the assumption that war between us is impossible, and that our Navies would not come into conflict with each other."

"We have both reiterated 'not only our adhesion to the Peace Pact, but have announced to the world that we are going to apply
it to our practical policy and use it to reach agreements on subjects
which have defied agreement hitherto."

"Consequently, I take to London
a series of questions, all of which will now be the subject of study by the Departments concerned and between the Dominions and ourselves, for the purpose of reaching an agreement thereon."

"This has been arrived at not enable us to be more effective than

tions to establish the security of

HOSPITAL ORDERLY CHARGED.

A STRUGGLE.

London, Aug. 29.

James Whitehead, aged 42, chief monitor at the Ministry of Pensions Hospital at Cosham, Hampshire, who had already been committed for trial on a coroner's warrant on a charge of manslaughter, appeared at Portsmouth Police Court yesterday charged with causing the death of Ralph Whitefield Gidden, aged 38, an ex-soldier, of Raynes Park, who was a patient at the hospital.

Mr. Sefton Cohen appeared on behalf of the Public Prosecutor, and Whitehead was defended by Mr. J. D. Cassels, K.C., and Mr. St.
John Hutchinson.

Mr. J. L. Pratt, on the instructions of the Treasury Solicitor, watched the proceedings on behalf of the Ministry of Pensions.

Mr. Cohen said that on June 11
Gidden was admitted to the Royal Portsmouth Hospital suffering from grave abdominal injury and died a few hours later.

It would be the case for the prosecution that on the previous day
when Gidden was being transferred from G. to F. ward at the Cosham Hospital, Whitehead deliberately kicked him and so caused the injury which resulted in Gidden's death.

Gidden's Strength.

Dr. D. H. Paul, the medical superintendent of Cosham Hospital, said that the institution was for the reception of ex-Servicemen suffering from neurasthenia and other mental disorders.

Whitehead was a man of sound qualification and a most capable and efficient monitor. He had no complaint against him of any kind until this case came up.

He had heard that before his removal to F. Ward Gidden had been quarrelsome. Also that he tried to catch imaginary things on the wall,
and had attempted to set fire to his ward. He was a potential homicide and a man of great personal strength. He had been in a series of institutions since 1919 and had once been certified. He had been sent to F. Ward to be certified.

Dr. F. H. Simpson said that Whitehead reported to him that in a struggle with Gidden, Orderly Lovel had received a kick in the stomach, and he (Whitehead) had been hit in the mouth by Gidden.

Whitehead added that he did not think it necessary for Dr. Simpson to see Gidden, and that he had reported the occurrence to call attention to Gidden's injuries.

Bruises on Eye and Hip.
Dr. W. H. Allen, senior house surgeon at the Royal Portsmouth Hospital, said that Gidden when admitted was suffering from shock,
and had bruises on the left eye and hip bone.

The cause of death was a perforated ulcer, and he considered that the perforation took place at the same time as the bruising,
which was caused by violence.

It was possible, he added, for the perforation to arise from natural causes.

The case was adjourned.

The startling story of what happened to a beautiful stage star
when she and her Company dared the Unknown and came back to a long-empty theatre to revive a performance that previously had proved fatal.
